

This is Fellowship

I believe you learn how to follow Christ by belonging to and participating in a church. In other words, you can't faithfully follow Christ all on your own. You'll remember the Jerusalem Church in Acts and how they devoted themselves to the Apostle's teaching (Bible study) and to fellowship (Acts 2:42-47). They did life and faith together. I want to refocus on the fellowship aspect of being a church. Fellowship is more than going to social activities. Fellowship is a participation in a common goal. This is what the Jerusalem Church was known for: working toward the common goal of lifting one another for Christ.

Last week, you witnessed again what a group of Christians can do for the common good through the Clothing Giveaway Ministry. Literally tons of clothes were sorted and hung. 100s of people were served. The poor and those who struggle to get by were helped. Members shared so that none of us would need clothing. The Clothing Giveaway was done in the name of Jesus, and he was glorified in our community. All of this activity is what fellowship means. The fellowship of the clothing ministry is the pursuit of a common goal.

Brothers and sisters in Christ, East Hill won't reach its full potential until every member is doing their part in our fellowship, and you won't reach your full potential in Christ unless you serve alongside others. Two weeks ago, we shared our Ministry Handbook and a Ministry involvement survey to help everyone connect with East

Hill's mission. I want to highlight a few opportunities to serve, both old and new, from some of our 26 ministries.

- Make baby blankets with Shirley Weber.
- Make and send encouragement cards with Brenda Reicheneker.
- Help with building and grounds maintenance with Eric Tremaine and Josh Rinard.
- Help plan and host events with Jared Pack.
- Help provide meals for funerals or emergencies with Trey Colle and East Hill secretaries.
- Adopt a shut-in member and visit them regularly, with Mark and Rose Miller coordinating.
- Use your handyman or woman skills to help a member in need on a project with Rick White.

As you can see, ministry is not just about serving in a role on Sunday morning. There are numerous opportunities to serve, and through your service, you grow as a follower of Jesus. Jesus is still doing the "works of the Father" as he builds his kingdom among us. You are not mere attenders in a church, but rather you are a mover and a shaker, a contributor to the common good. You are needed. You belong here. If you haven't yet, please pick up a Ministry Handbook and involvement survey and complete it today. Already, 44 individuals have turned in a ministry involvement survey! We hope you will, too.
